BULGARIA PRESENTS MEMORANDUM TO POWERS ON MACEDONIAN AFFAIRS.

REVIVING THE REVOLUTION

ALLEGED REFORM MEASURES ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR PRESENT OUTBREAK.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 17.—The Bulgarian government has presented a memorandum to the powers setting out at great length the condition of affairs during the past three months in Macedonia since the Turkish government undertook to inaugurate the promised reforms. The most precise details, dates, places and names of persons are given in the memorandum, the whole constituting a terrible category of murder, torture, incendiarism, pillage and general oppression committed by the Ottoman soldiers and officials. These particulars were obtained entirely from official sources, such as the reports of the Bulgarian consuls and agents of the Bulgarian government and, in many instances, the reports made by Turkish authorities. The Bulgarian government guarantees the absolute truth of every statement and challenges the porte to disprove a single charge made in the memorandum.

The memorandum begins by stating that during the past three months the Ottoman government has taken a series of measures with the alleged intention of inaugurating the era of promised reform and of assuring

Peace and Tranquility to the Bulgarian population of European Turkey, but which have had the contrary effect of further exasperating this population and reviving the revolutionary movement. Instead of proceeding solely against persons guilty of breaches of the public order, the civil and military authorities have sought every possible pretext to persecute, terrorize and ruin the Bulgarian inhabitants, alike in the large cities and in the small villages.

Wholesale massacres, individual murders, the destruction of villages, the pillaging and setting fire to houses, the arrests, ill treatment, tortures, arbitrary imprisonment and banishment, the closing and disorganizing of churches and schools, the ruining of merchants, the collection of taxes for many years in advance—such, proceeds the memorandum, are among the acts of the Ottoman administration of the vilayets of Salonica, Monastir, Uskub and Adrianople.

The memorandum next relates in detail a number of such cases in each vilayet. Beginning with the vilayet of Salonica, it states that in the town of Salonica itself the Bulgarian professors of the university, the students and shopkeepers, in fact, all the intelligent Bulgarians in the city, have been Cast into Prison. One hundred and twenty soldiers entered the village of Gorna-Ribnitsa May 19 and tortured to death five men and two women. During the first three weeks of July, twenty-five villages in the district of Likvesch were subjected to the depredations of the Turkish soldiers and the Bashi-Bazouks. The villagers were beaten and tortured, the women violated and the houses plundered while the administrative authorities looked on.

In the vilayet of Monastir, artillery bombarded and razed the flourishing town of Smerdesch, the three hundred houses being left a heap of ruins. At the beginning of July two Greek bands, with the connivance of the authorities, pillaged Bulgarian villages and murdered many of their inhabitants.

In the vilayet of Uskub, the entire Bulgarian population has been systematically persecuted since last May. The director of the normal school at Uskub was imprisoned because his library contained the "revolutionary" works of "Othello" and "Les Miserables."

In the districts of Palanka, Koscha-ni, Koumanovo and Gostivar, the prisons are filled with Bulgarian priests, schoolmasters and merchants. During June the soldiers and Bashi-Bazouks terrorized the inhabitants of the Schit district.

Torturing the People with red-hot irons. Similar atrocities perpetrated in the vilayet of Adrianople are cited.

Altogether, the memorandum gives particulars of no less than 131 individual and general cases of excesses and outrages committed by the Turkish authorities. In summarizing the specific details of the outrages mentioned, the memorandum declares that wholesale massacres were perpetrated by regulars and Bashi-Bazouks in the towns of Salonica and the villages of Baldevo, Banitz, Echourlovo, Karlinza, Moghila, Smerdesch and Enidje, while the scenes of carnage, pillage and incendiarism were everywhere terrible.

At Smerdesch, over two hundred Bulgarians were shot and killed with swords or burned to death. Over 250 houses and the churches and schools were set on fire with petroleum and pillaged, the property being sold by the soldiers and Bashi-Bazouks in neighboring places. Similar scenes occurred at the villages of Gorna-Ribnitsa, Igoumentz, Dobrilaki and Nikodom—the villagers there abandoned their homes and fled to the mountains.

Over 3,000 men, women and children fled from the Sanjak of the Seros and even more from the Sanjak of Kirk-Kiles. It is difficult, says the memorandum, to obtain the exact number of Bulgarians who were imprisoned, mostly on the flimsiest of pretexts, as when they were released others were immediately arrested. It is thought that without exaggeration the number of prisoners may be placed at 8,400.

Other Acts of Oppression.

Dealing with other acts of oppression, the memorandum states that the Bulgarian merchants and artisans living in Constantinople and Salonica were ruined by an order of expulsion, which included educators and which closed Bulgarian schools.

The authorities rigorously enforced the same order against the Bulgarian priests, making every effort to paralyze the development of religious and educational work, and deprive the Bulgarian exarch of all his privileges and force the people to come under the authority of the Greek patriarch. Encouraged by the Ottoman authorities, the Green bishops and archimandrites forced their way into the Bulgarian church, burned the prayerbooks and employed menaces to compel the people to acknowledge the patriarch.

In addition to the decree banishing the Bulgarian tradesmen from Constantinople and Salonica, the porte adopted measures to ruin the traders elsewhere. Burdened with taxes, liable to perform stultic labor for the Turkish land owners, the population is reduced to a state of serfdom. This is one of the principal causes of discontent and when is added the exactions of the tax gatherers, it is not difficult to understand why the wretched people should revolt from such a despotic government and servitude.

In conclusion the memorandum asserts that the foregoing exposure once more condemns Ottoman administrative government in Europe. It says: "Not long ago the porte denounced these revolutionary movements as being fomented by Bulgaria and tried to put the responsibility on this principle. Today it must acknowledge that it is its bad administration which is the only cause for the trouble. From sad experience the porte must learn that systematic persecution, cruel injustice and bloody repression

Do Not Restore Order and Peace in a country. The porte accepted in principle the project of reform which it has not put into effect. It has declared that the project is insufficient. Lastly, the porte formally promised the Bulgarian government to cease the arrests of Bulgarian priests and schoolmasters, reopen the churches and schools, release the prisoners and punish the officials guilty of exactions; in short, to adopt a policy of justice and amelioration.

"Not only has the porte failed to observe a single one of these promises, but it has enacted sterner measures of repression. To give only one example: It is prescribed as a condition of his release that a Bulgarian prisoner must furnish either financial or personal security, but in the latter case the security must be a Turkish subject of non-Bulgarian origin. It is easy to comprehend that the imprisoned Bulgarians find it impossible to obtain release under such conditions. By this and other similar acts the Ottoman administration can be judged. What must be the result of all this? Tired of waiting the fulfillment of promises of better conditions and driven to despair, the Bulgarian population have thrown themselves into a revolution, which is now spreading in an Ottoman province 150 miles from the Bulgarian frontier.

The causes of this revolution are today known. The responsibility is fixed and the porte can no longer accuse the Bulgarian principality." The memorandum has made a strong impression in diplomatic circles. The Austrian diplomatic agent has already called on the premier to express his anxiety regarding the results that may ensue from its publication. The French and Italian agents also expressed uneasiness, although they took a less gloomy view.

PURCHASES BATTERIES.

Ottoman Government Obtains Guns From the Krupp Works.

Constantinople, Aug. 17.—The Ottoman government has concluded negotiations with the Krupp works for the supply of thirty-two batteries of quick-fire field artillery, each consisting of six guns.

The officials here affect ignorance of the news that Russia is sending a squadron to Turkish waters.

Official reports assert that the insurgents when they occupied the town of Krushevo, massacred all the Turkish functionaries.

In the fighting around Perlep 190 insurgents were killed and according to official information, the inhabitants of 100 Bulgarian villages have surrendered their arms and have been pardoned.

STATEMENT BY BIXBY

CHAIRMAN OF DAWES COMMISSION IS NOT INTERESTED IN INDIAN LAND.

NO GROUNDS FOR SUSPICION

BELIEVES CONDUCT OF OTHER OFFICIALS HAS NOT BEEN IMPROPER.

St. Paul, Aug. 17.—Tams Bixby, chairman of the Dawes commission, wired the following communication to the Globe yesterday:

Red Wing, Minn., Aug. 16.—"I have never been interested directly or indirectly in the purchase of an acre of Indian land and never expect to be. Neither am I interested as a stockholder or officer in any firm or corporation organized for the purpose of buying or selling such lands. It is true that I am president of one trust company, director of another trust company and a director of a national bank at Muskogee, but each of these institutions is purely a banking and loaning company. Up to the day when I was last in the territory neither of these companies, so far as I am advised, had purchased a single piece of Indian property.

"But if such were the case I take it the transaction would be perfectly legitimate. No Indian lands can now be sold in Indian Territory except upon approval of the deed by the secretary of the interior and, while this business is something that our commission has no connection with, I am informed that all sales have been made by open public bids.

"The secretary maintains in Muskogee a special personal representative with many assistants especially charged with the duty of supervising all sales of lands by Indians. If these duties are honestly administered, which I have no doubt is the case, there can be no possible opportunity for fraud.

"As to the other government officials involved in these seemingly sensational reports from Washington, in my opinion there is absolutely no foundation for suspicion of improper conduct respecting the handling of these lands on the part of any federal employee in the territory."

NO INTENTIONAL DISHONESTY.

But Commissioner Jones Favors Indian Office Investigation.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Speaking of the charges made affecting Indian department officials, Indian Commissioner Jones said:

"It is impossible for any government official connected with a land company dealing in Indian lands to be entirely impartial in his decisions when he is deciding questions which may affect his own welfare. I do not think any officials whose names appear as stockholders or directors in the Indian territory land companies had any intention of acting dishonestly, but I must say that I think it was in extremely bad taste for them to allow themselves to be connected with the companies.

"I believe the Indian office should at once undertake a thorough investigation of the conditions in the Indian territory and prepare a report, and then, if congress considers further investigation desirable, there will be material upon which to work."

SERIOUS CLASH OCCURS.

Striking Machinists and Nonunion Men Fight at Riverside, W. Va.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 17.—A clash occurred early Sunday morning between the striking machinists and about twenty-five nonunion men who took their places in the Riverside plant of the United States Steel corporation. The battle was initiated Saturday night and despite the fact that over 1,000 shots were fired in the clash, there were no fatalities and only a few persons were wounded.

The machinists have been out on strike for several weeks and the situation was becoming desperate for the corporation until they imported about twenty men to take the places of the strikers. The strikers congregated about the boarding houses of the nonunionists Saturday night fully armed and began an attack upon the places. The houses were heavily barricaded and many volleys were fired into the structures. Finally a well directed shot from within the house wounded one of the strikers, and he was carried to a hospital. Clay Hoover, a spectator, was also shot in the left knee, but not seriously. A number of other people who were in the building with the nonunionists received wounds. About 300 nonunionists participated in the riot and a fresh outbreak is feared at any moment.

Sunday night the strikers, who are living in the hills, fired upon Peter Silatek, who was passing that point. He was seriously wounded. The strikers mistook him for a spy.

AN AUTOPSY ORDERED.

Harsh Treatment Said to Have Caused Orloff to Commit Suicide.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 17.—On the strength of a signed statement made by Edward Dorval, chief operator of the Western Telegraph company here, to the effect that he was an eye witness to a terrible beating administered to Frank Orloff, the Wyoming stage robber who led the jail break several days ago, Coroner Egan has ordered an autopsy performed on Orloff's body. Dorval alleges he saw Orloff kicked in the stomach repeatedly in an effort to make him divulge the name of the person who gave him the gun used in the break, until the man's frantic cries for mercy were hushed by insensibility. Orloff's body was found hanging in his cell Saturday, and it is alleged the prisoner was driven to suicide by the treatment at the hands of the jailers.

Walter Anderson Charged With Murder of a Boy.

Stevensville, Mont., Aug. 17.—The body of the six-year-old boy named Buck, who, it was believed, was abducted by a stranger two days ago, was discovered near here Sunday by a searching party. His body had been shockingly mutilated with a knife. Later the coroner's jury returned a verdict that the boy had been murdered and charged Walter Anderson of Missoula with being responsible. Anderson is now in jail at Hamilton.

Citizens of Stevensville are highly wrought up over the affair and it is said are preparing to lynch Anderson.

SERIOUS CLASH OCCURS.

Striking Machinists and Nonunion Men Fight at Riverside, W. Va.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 17.—A clash occurred early Sunday morning between the striking machinists and about twenty-five nonunion men who took their place in the Riverside plant of the United States Steel corporation. The battle was initiated Saturday night and despite the fact that over 1,000 shots were fired in the clash, there were no fatalities and only a few persons were wounded.

The machinists have been out on strike for several weeks and the situation was becoming desperate for the corporation until they imported about twenty men to take the places of the strikers. The strikers congregated about the boarding houses of the nonunionists Saturday night fully armed and began an attack upon the places. The houses were heavily barricaded and many volleys were fired into the structures. Finally a well directed shot from within the house wounded one of the strikers, and he was carried to a hospital. Clay Hoover, a spectator, was also shot in the left knee, but not seriously. A number of other people who were in the building with the nonunionists received wounds. About 300 unionists participated in the riot and a fresh outbreak is feared at any moment.

Sunday night the strikers, who are living in the hills, fired upon Peter Silatek, who was passing that point. He was seriously wounded. The strikers mistook him for a spy.

AN AUTOPSY ORDERED.

Harsh Treatment Said to Have Caused Orloff to Commit Suicide.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 17.—On the strength of a signed statement made by Edward Dorval, chief operator of the Western Telegraph company here, to the effect that he was an eye witness to a terrible beating administered to Frank Orloff, the Wyoming stage robber who led the jail break several days ago, Coroner Egan has ordered an autopsy performed on Orloff's body. Dorval alleges he saw Orloff kicked in the stomach repeatedly in an effort to make him divulge the name of the person who gave him the gun used in the break, until the man's frantic cries for mercy were hushed by insensibility. Orloff's body was found hanging in his cell Saturday, and it is alleged the prisoner was driven to suicide by the treatment at the hands of the jailers.

Memorial to a Squaw.

The women of Oregon have formed an association for the purpose of erecting a statue of Sacajewea at the Lewis and Clark Centennial exhibition, says the New York Evening Journal. Sacajewea was an Indian woman of the Shoshone tribe who was of great service to the explorers Lewis and Clark. She smoothed their way with her own tribe and with the Flatheads and Nez Percés and procured ponies for them at a time when they would have been forced to abandon the expedition but for her assistance. She acted as their guide, and it was said of her that she had the instinct of a homing pigeon in threading the wilderness. The proposed memorial will cost $6,000.

AN EXPANSIVE ARCHIVE

The Government's Plan For a Hall of Records.

FUTURE NEED PROVIDED FOR.

Large Main Building With Extensions Proposed—United States Will Be the Third Nation to Have a Structure Devoted to Preservation of National Documents.

The Hall of Records at Washington, which will be used as a repository for departmental records, will be built on a plan entirely different from that followed in the construction of other government buildings in the national capital, arrangements being made so as to permit extensions from time to time as more space is required, says the New York Times.

There is not a public building in Washington large enough to contain the bureaus of the department for which it was provided, and some of the departments outgrew their buildings years ago. This condition has made necessary the renting of large office buildings and other structures. The aggregate paid by the government in rents would appall the economical taxpayer. An instance is found in the case of a costly new office building taken for government purposes. It is said that the lease provides a rental which in five years will aggregate an amount equal to the entire cost of the building. Other rentals paid by the government are said to be upon a similar basis.

"There is no public improvement more needed for the welfare of the nation than a Hall of Records," said Mr. Taylor, the supervising architect of the treasury, the other day. "The growth of government business is so rapid and the accumulation of the files so great that in consequence all the files are cramped for room in which to store papers which by law must be preserved. The destruction by fire of any of the department buildings would cause irreparable injury, confusion and delay in the transaction of the public business. Especially is this true with reference to the treasury, which is the great clearing house of the government, where all its debts are paid and evidence of such payments preserved. Departmental records, overfilling the originally provided repositories, in several cases have been stored in other buildings which the government rents."

"The plans for the Hall of Records now under consideration provide for a large main building, with extensions. The main building is to be devoted to the business of the superintendent of the records, and there will be an extension for each of the departments. The extensions are to be so constructed that they can be enlarged as increased space is demanded. The site was selected with a view of obtaining additional ground when it shall be required."

"The government has arranged for the purchase of the entire space bounded by Eighteenth, Nineteenth, F and G streets, so there will be ample ground for the kind of building proposed. Congress has appropriated $5,000 to be expended in the drawing of the plans, and at the next session an appropriation for the building probably will be authorized."

"The plan of the government in constructing buildings of one and two stories will not be followed, as the Hall of Records will be a building of several stories. It has been proposed that the departments be connected with the Hall of Records by a pneumatic tube system similar to that in use between the capitol and the Congressional library, which has proved successful."

"There are only two buildings devoted to the preservation of governmental records in the world. One is in London and the other in Paris. An agent of the supervising architect's bureau will be directed to go to Europe and inspect those buildings and report on the methods employed there, with a view to adopting the most effective methods for our Hall of Records."

The site of the Hall of Records is a block to the west of the war, state and navy buildings and not far from the White House and treasury. John Hay, secretary of state, and Senator William M. Stewart of Nevada are the largest holders of property in the square taken by the government. The property holders at first demanded exorbitant prices for their holdings, but under the threat of condemnation proceedings they agreed to sell for two and one-eighth times the assessed valuation of the property.

Great Dome For St. Louis Fair.

The plans and specifications for the St. Louis world's fair festival hall, which is to stand at the head of the main cascade on Art hill, have been given to the contractors. The principal feature of the hall is the sculpture crowned top of the dome, 230 feet high. The dome, it is said, is to be larger than that of St. Peter's in Rome, which is the largest in the world. The soffit of the dome will be 122 feet from the floor of the theater. The proscenium arch of the stage will have a span of 93 feet 4 inches, and the stage will be fifty-four feet deep.

Novel Locomotive Exhibit.

One of the interesting exhibits at the St. Louis exposition will be a locomotive of the old, red wheel type which used to run between Hannibal and St. Joseph, Mo., before the war, connecting at the latter town with Buffalo Bill's famous pony express, says the Four Track News. Side by side with this will be one of the great Burlington locomotives. This, with numerous similar contrasting exhibits, will tell in a story without words the almost incredible progress of railroading in the last half century.

Memorial to a Squaw.

The women of Oregon have formed an association for the purpose of erecting a statue of Sacajewea at the Lewis and Clark Centennial exhibition, says the New York Evening Journal. Sacajewea was an Indian woman of the Shoshone tribe who was of great service to the explorers Lewis and Clark. She smoothed their way with her own tribe and with the Flatheads and Nez Perces and procured ponies for them at a time when they would have been forced to abandon the expedition but for her assistance. She acted as their guide, and it was said of her that she had the instinct of a homing pigeon in threading the wilderness. The proposed memorial will cost $6,000.

AN EXPANSIVE ARCHIVE

The Government's Plan For a Hall of Records.

FUTURE NEED PROVIDED FOR.

Large Main Building With Extensions Proposed—United States Will Be the Third Nation to Have a Structure Devoted to Preservation of National Documents.

The Hall of Records at Washington, which will be used as a repository for departmental records, will be built on a plan entirely different from that followed in the construction of other government buildings in the national capital, arrangements being made so as to permit extensions from time to time as more space is required, says the New York Times.

There is not a public building in Washington large enough to contain the bureaus of the department for which it was provided, and some of the departments outgrew their buildings years ago. This condition has made necessary the renting of large office buildings and other structures. The aggregate paid by the government in rents would appall the economical taxpayer. An instance is found in the case of a costly new office building taken for government purposes. It is said that the lease provides a rental which in five years will aggregate an amount equal to the entire cost of the building. Other rentals paid by the government are said to be upon a similar basis.

"There is no public improvement more needed for the welfare of the nation than a Hall of Records," said Mr. Taylor, the supervising architect of the treasury, the other day. "The growth of government business is so rapid and the accumulation of the files so great that in consequence all the files are cramped for room in which to store papers which by law must be preserved. The destruction by fire of any of the department buildings would cause irreparable injury, confusion and delay in the transaction of the public business. Especially is this true with reference to the treasury, which is the great clearing house of the government, where all its debts are paid and evidence of such payments preserved. Departmental records, overfilling the originally provided repositories, in several cases have been stored in other buildings which the government rents."

"The plans for the Hall of Records now under consideration provide for a large main building, with extensions. The main building is to be devoted to the business of the superintendent of the records, and there will be an extension for each of the departments. The extensions are to be so constructed that they can be enlarged as increased space is demanded. The site was selected with a view of obtaining additional ground when it shall be required."

"The government has arranged for the purchase of the entire space bounded by Eighteenth, Nineteenth, F and G streets, so there will be ample ground for the kind of building proposed. Congress has appropriated $5,000 to be expended in the drawing of the plans, and at the next session an appropriation for the building probably will be authorized."

"The plan of the government in constructing buildings of one and two stories will not be followed, as the Hall of Records will be a building of several stories. It has been proposed that the departments be connected with the Hall of Records by a pneumatic tube system similar to that in use between the capitol and the Congressional library, which has proved successful."

"There are only two buildings devoted to the preservation of governmental records in the world. One is in London and the other in Paris. An agent of the supervising architect's bureau will be directed to go to Europe and inspect those buildings and report on the methods employed there, with a view to adopting the most effective methods for our Hall of Records."

The site of the Hall of Records is a block to the west of the war, state and navy buildings and not far from the White House and treasury. John Hay, secretary of state, and Senator William M. Stewart of Nevada are the largest holders of property in the square taken by the government. The property holders at first demanded exorbitant prices for their holdings, but under the threat of condemnation proceedings they agreed to sell for two and one-eighth times the assessed valuation of the property.

Great Dome For St. Louis Fair.

The plans and specifications for the St. Louis world's fair festival hall, which is to stand at the head of the main cascade on Art hill, have been given to the contractors. The principal feature of the hall is the sculpture crowned top of the dome, 200 feet high. The dome, it is said, is to be larger than that of St. Peter's in Rome, which is the largest in the world. The soffit of the dome will be 122 feet from the floor of the theater. The proscenium arch of the stage will have a span of 93 feet 4 inches, and the stage will be fifty-four feet deep.

Novel Locomotive Exhibit.

One of the interesting exhibits at the St. Louis exposition will be a locomotive of the old red wheel type which used to run between Hannibal and St. Joseph, Mo., before the war, connecting at the latter town with Buffalo Bill's famous pony express, says the Four Track News. Side by side with this will be one of the great Burlington locomotives. This, with numerous similar contrasting exhibits, will tell in a story without words the almost incredible progress of railroading in the last half century.

CLAIM BY CHIPPEWAS.

Judge W. B. Matthews, of Washington, Holding a Council with Chief Flatmouth at Walker.

Judge W. B. Matthews, land attorney of Washington, D. C., and for several years connected with the general land office at Washington, is holding a council with Chief Flatmouth and Maj. Scott at Onigum. Judge Matthews is securing material for his great land case, in which he represents the Chippewa tribe in a case involving about 900,000 acres of land. He expects to present his case before the next congress, and believes that the Chippewa is entitled to enormous amounts of money from the government. Mr. Matthews won the great case of the state of Idaho, which succeeded in getting all its land grants from the government through Judge Matthews.

Judge Matthews says of this case that in 1849 the United States purchased from the Chippewa the land in question for the small sum of $14,000 the government promising to place on the Indian land a friendly tribe of Indians to act as intermediate between them and their deadly enemies, the Sioux. The government did not put on the land a friendly tribe, but sold this valuable territory to a purchaser at $1,000,000. To this the Chippewa objected, and are trying to secure compensation. That their claim is just is a matter of law, but the Indian commissioner has recommended that the money be paid to the Chippewa. Senators Nelson and Clapp, while in sympathy, have been unable to secure compensation, and a delegation from the Chippewa went to Washington and employed Judge Matthews. Chief Flatmouth called a council at Leech lake, and completed their contest and filed it with the Indian commissioner before congress when it assembled.

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should be Answered Easily by Brainerd People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow citizens, of people you know, or depend upon statements made by utter strangers, residing in far-away places? Read the following:

Mr. F. J. Hagadorn, of 123 Ninth St. north, says: "For thirty years I had more or less trouble with my kidneys. Some attacks laid me up while during others my back ached so severely that I could not sleep at night nor work during the day. On many occasions I could not stand and talk to a man for two or three minutes without suffering with twinges across the small of my back which radiated toward the shoulders. As time passed by the complaint became more pronounced and difficulty with the kidney secretions set in. As might be expected I tried everything when the attacks occurred to check them, but if I had met with any marked degree of success I never would have resorted to Doan's Kidney Pills."

"When suffering severely I went to a drug-store and got a box. I expected the result would be similar to those obtained by using other preparations. In twenty-four hours I changed my mind. I noticed they were acting totally different to anything hitherto tried, and encouraged I kept on with the treatment until I finished two boxes. Now I may have recurrences but at the present moment, and it is sometime since I stopped the treatment, I have not a symptom of my old complaint. To anyone interested I will be only too pleased to give a minute detail and substantiate the above statement in a personal interview."

SIX SITES LOOKED OVER.

Looked Over and Discussed by Advisory

Board of Physicians for Sanatorium at Walker.

Six sites for the state sanatorium that is to receive sufferers from incipient tuberculosis have been selected near Walker, Minn., by the advisory committee of physicians appointed last month, says the Minneapolis Journal. Dr. A. P. Williamson, secretary, returned Friday night. The other members are Drs. H. Longstreet Taylor, St. Paul, chairman; George H. Wattam, Warren; James L. Camp, Brainerd; George P. Weiser, New Ulm. They passed several days in a diligent examination of sites about Walker.

"It was agreed between our committee and the board of control," said Dr. Williamson, "that we should choose half a dozen appropriate sites near Walker and that we should report their advantages and disadvantages to the board, which would then purchase the property to be obtained on the best terms, everything considered. Our committee and the board must arrange for improving the site, erecting buildings, etc. We shall recommend what we think best, but the board must approve our suggestions and all expenditures must be made under the board's direction."

"We couldn't take action sooner because the $25,000 appropriated did not become available until Aug. 1. We'll report to the board next week; the site will probably be cleared this fall; buildings will be begun next spring and patients will be accepted soon afterwards."

"We examined three or four places on the hills south and east of Walker. Any other possible site is near Lake May, three-quarters of a mile from Walker. Still another is Pine mountain on the lower end of Leech lake inside the reservation."

"All the sites have a fine water supply good drainage, convenient connection with railroads. The elevation is fair—1,200 feet or more—and the air is notably pure and balsamic. Although white pine has been cut from some of the sites, there is plenty of timber left—jack pine, balsam, fir, spruce and maple."

BASE BALL NUBS

Brainerd, 7; Staples, 3.
Brainerd defeated Staples yesterday afternoon at Staples in a very fast game of ball. Seven is the smallest score Brainerd has made for some time, and Christenson, Staples' pitcher, was the cause of it all. He had speed to burn and by mixing in a few curves had the Brainerd boys guessing at times. He struck out twelve of Brainerd's hitters, and although nine hits were made off him, he kept them well scattered.

Tasche for Brainerd pitched a fairly good game striking out eleven men. Eleven hits were made off him, but they didn't come at the right time to produce scores. The real feature of the game was the team work of the Brainerd nine when real good work of that kind was needed. Roderick, Brainerd's catcher, played a very heady game. Several times he caught the Staples base-runners napping. Dickie Ryan's home run over the right field fence was a peach and came when most needed. Jack Boyle made two corking two baggers and a single. For Staples, Phillips at third, and Church in center field, starred, both in the field and at the bat. Two of Brainerd's runs were earned while none of Staples were.

The following is the score by innings:
Brainerd—2 2 0 1 0 0 0 2—7
Dickie Ryan, who has played second for Brainerd for some time will leave today for Proctor Knot where he has accepted a position in a machine shop.

A BLAST FROM TOLSTOI

Famous Russian Count Says Trusts Are Childish.

"MERELY PASSING PHENOMENA."

He Considers it a Religious Duty to Refuse to Work For a Trust—Would Rather Die Than Work For Rockefeller—Laments For a Martyr's Death. His Reflection Upon a Chicago Educator's Ability.

James Croelman, who recently interviewed Count Leo Tolstoi at his estate, publishes the great Russian's views in the New York World.

Count Tolstoi declared that Americans should starve rather than work for John D. Rockefeller or any of the great trusts. As for himself, he said it was his ambition to die a martyr's death, and he declared he had made earnest efforts to be hanged or at least to be sent to prison. Tolstoi had been asked to express an opinion of American trusts and in the course of his answer said:

"You talk of the trusts in America as if the question were important," he said. "To my mind these industrial questions are childish. The trust and the labor union are merely passing phenomena. A man does not have to live in an industrial center where human slavery has been established. He does not have to live in a city. Because man has spoiled a part of the earth is that a reason why people should stay there and suffer? No man should work for a man like Rockefeller. He should prefer starvation. He should consider it a religious duty to refuse to work for a trust. Let a man who works for a trust in America and who seeks relief—let such a man go into the country and get a small portion of ground to cultivate. Let him give up luxuries. Let him cease eating meat. The cost of living will be less than one-sixth of what it was."

"And if a man cannot get ground to dig in what then?"

"He should die rather than assist in supporting men like Rockefeller. It is his duty to die. If a military uniform were put on him and he were ordered to die he would do it proudly. For what? For patriotism, that evil thing which has done so much harm in the world and which we should condemn and restrict rather than defend and spread. The trouble is that men are not ready to die for the right thing."

"The talk about American trusts being an evolution of science is stupid. There is no science about it. The trust will disappear as soon as people are brave enough to refuse to serve it. A great deal is said about the enormous increase in production accomplished by the trusts. But is such production necessary? Does it make the people happier? No."

"But the trust system has produced Andrew Carnegie, and he is using his hundreds of millions of dollars to provide free libraries for the people," I suggested.

"Yes; but libraries are not necessarily blessings. A library of good books is a good thing, but a library largely made up of bad books is a curse. I do not understand that Mr. Carnegie fills his libraries with good books only."

"Last year President Harper of the University of Chicago came to see me. He told me about the millions of dollars that Rockefeller had given to the university. He seemed to think that these millions were of great importance. But when I came to talk to him about serious matters I found him to be really ignorant—quite a barbarian. He knew less about matters of intellectual and moral interest than a man might learn simply by reading the Review of Reviews, for instance. Think of such a university directed by such a man! And yet that is one of the results of these trust millions."

"America is a nation absorbed in the pursuit of money, and yet," he folded his arms and bent his gray head—"and yet I will say if the Anglo-Saxon race to live up to their principles. It is only just to say that. But the Germans are utterly without religion."

"It is a curious thing that the ordinary conception of the German is that he is an idealist and of the American and Englishman that they are practical. That is only an external description. The truth is that the German is only an idealist in words, in poetry, while there are Americans and Englishmen who can be idealists in deeds."

When the conversation was turned upon himself Count Tolstoi said: "I have tried hard to be sent to prison or to be hanged, but I have failed."

"Tried to be hanged?"

"Yes. It is the best end for a man except to be burned. Sacrifice is the best end."

"Are you quite serious?"

The count smiled and answered: "I have done everything to win that destiny. It is the ambition of my life to die for the faith that is in me. They who are sacrificed die well."

"But what good could you do by being hanged on a Russian gallows?"

For a moment Tolstoi was silent, then he sighed and stroked his gray beard.

"I am afraid you cannot understand me," he said. "They are about to put up a monument to John Huss, the Bohemian, who was burned at the stake for his religion in 1415."

"But Martin Luther was not burned, and he lived to see the Reformation succeed."

"Luther lived to compromise his own principles. Huss died without compromise."

"It is really hard to believe that you have deliberately sought to be condemned to death."

"It is quite true."

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"UNCLE JOSH SPRUCEBY."

The funny New England comedy, "Uncle Josh Spruceby" will be the attraction at the Brainerd theatre tonight. This charming comedy drama is a series of pictures of New England life on the farm, and the troubles of "Uncle Josh" in making a visit to New York are incidentally touched upon, the characters are all taken from Vermont rural life and are true to nature, the play containing a mixture of pathos and humor. Special scenery is used to mount the different scenes, and the great Saw Mill scene in use in this production is a most realistic piece of stage mechanism. Twenty people are in the company. In the cities visited this season the press speaks well of the production. Many new and catchy specialties are presented. A solo operatic orchestra and a big band are the musical features. A parade was given at noon and the concert of popular music rendered by the band proved very popular and attracted a large crowd.

CLAIM BY CHIPPEWAS.

Judge W. B. Matthews, of Washington, Holding a Council with Chief Flatmouth at Walker.

Judge W. B. Matthews, land attorney of Washington, D. C., and for several years connected with the general land office at Washington, is holding a council with Chief Flatmouth and Maj. Scott at Onigum. Judge Matthews is securing material for his great land case, in which he represents the Chippewa tribe in a case involving about 900,000 acres of land. He expects to present his case before the next congress, and believes that the Chippewa is entitled to enormous amounts of money from the government. Mr. Matthews won the great case of the state of Idaho, which succeeded in getting all its land grants from the government through Judge Matthews.

Judge Matthews says of this case that in 1849 the United States purchased from the Chippewas the land in question for the small sum of $14,000 the government promising to place on the Indian land a friendly tribe of Indians to act as intermediaries between them and their deadly enemies, the Sioux. The government did not put on the land a friendly tribe, but sold this valuable territory to a purchaser at $1,000,000. To this the Chippewas objected, and are trying to secure compensation. That their claim is just is a matter of law, but the Indian commissioner has recommended that the money be paid to the Chippewas. Senators Nelson and Clapp, while in sympathy, have been unable to secure compensation, and a delegation from the Chippewas went to Washington and employed Judge Matthews. Chief Flatmouth called a council at Leech lake, and completed their contest and filed it with the Indian commissioner before congress when it assembles.

Mr. F. J. Hagadorn, of 123 Ninth St., north, says: "For thirty years I had more or less trouble with my kidneys. Some attacks laid me up while during others my back ached so severely that I could not sleep at night nor work during the day. On many occasions I could not stand and talk to a man for two or three minutes without suffering with twinges across the small of my back which radiated toward the shoulders. As time passed by the complaint became more pronounced and difficulty with the kidney secretions set in. As might be expected I tried everything when the attacks occurred to check them, but if I had met with any marked degree of success I never would have resorted to Doan's Kidney Pills.

"When suffering severely I went to a drug store and got a box. I expected the result would be similar to those obtained by using other preparations. In twenty-four hours I changed my mind. I noticed they were acting totally different to anything hitherto tried, and encouraged I kept on with the treatment until I finished two boxes. Now I may have recurrences but at the present moment, and it is some time since I stopped the treatment, I have not a symptom of my old complaint. To any one interested I will be only too pleased to give a minutest detail and substantiate the above statement in a personal interview."

SIX SITES LOOKED OVER.

Looked Over and Discussed by Advisory

Board of Physicians for Sanatorium at Walker.

Six sites for the state sanatorium that is to receive sufferers from incipient tuberculosis have been selected near Walker, Minn., by the advisory committee of physicians appointed last month, says the Minneapolis Journal. Dr. A. P. Williamson, secretary, returned Friday night. The other members are Drs. H. Longstreet Taylor, St. Paul, chairman; George H. Wattam, Warren; James L. Camp, Brainerd; George P. Weiser, New Ulm. They passed several days in a diligent examination of sites about Walker.

"It was agreed between our committee and the board of control," said Dr. Williamson, "that we should choose half a dozen appropriate sites near Walker and that we should report their advantages and disadvantages to the board, which would then purchase the property to be obtained on the best terms, everything considered. Our committee and the board must arrange for improving the site, erecting buildings, etc. We shall recommend what we think best, but the board must approve our suggestions and all expenditures must be made under the board's direction.

"We couldn't take action sooner because the $25,000 appropriated did not become available until Aug. 1. We'll report to the board next week; the site will probably be cleared this fall; buildings will be begun next spring and patients will be accepted soon afterwards.

"We examined three or four places on the hills south and east of Walker. Another possible site is near Lake May, three-quarters of a mile from Walker. Still another is Pine mountain on the lower end of Leech lake inside the reservation.

"All the sites have a fine water supply good drainage, convenient connection with railroads. The elevation is fair—1,200 feet or more—and the air is notably pure and balsamic. Although white pine has been cut from some of the sites, there is plenty of timber left—jack pine, balsam, fir, spruce and maple."

BASE BALL NUBS

Brainerd, 7; Staples, 3.

Brainerd defeated Staples yesterday afternoon at Staples in a very fast game of ball. Seven is the smallest score Brainerd has made for some time, and Christenson, Staples' pitcher, was the cause of it all. He had speed to burn and by mixing in a few curves had the Brainerd boys guessing at times. He struck out twelve of Brainerd's hitters, and although nine hits were made off him, he kept them well scattered.

Tasche for Brainerd pitched a fairly good game striking out eleven men. Eleven hits were made off him, but they didn't come at the right time to produce scores. The real feature of the game was the team-work of the Brainerd nine when real good work of that kind was needed. Roderick, Brainerd's catcher, played a very heady game. Several times he caught the Staples base-runners napping. Dickie Ryan's home run over the right field fence was a peach and came when most needed. Jack Boyle made two corking two baggers and a single. For Staples, Phillips at third, and Church in center field, starred, both in the field and at the bat. Two of Brainerd's runs were earned while none of Staples' were.

The following is the score by innings:
Staples—0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0—3 11 3
Brainerd—2 2 0 1 0 0 0 2—7 9 4

Dickie Ryan, who has played second for Brainerd for some time will leave today for Proctor Knot where he has accepted a position in a machine shop.

A BLAST FROM TOLSTOI

"MERE PASSING PHENOMENA."

He Considers It a Religious Duty to Refuse to Work For a Trust—Would Rather Die Than Work For Rockefeller—Longs For a Martyr's Death. His Reflection Upon a Chicago Educator's Ability.

James Creelman, who recently interviewed Count Leo Tolstoi at his estate, publishes the great Russian's views in the New York World.

Count Tolstoi declared that Americans should starve rather than work for John D. Rockefeller or any of the great trusts. As for himself, he said it was his ambition to die a martyr's death, and he declared he had made earnest efforts to be hanged or at least to be sent to prison. Tolstoi had been asked to express an opinion of American trusts and in the course of his answer said:

"You talk of the trusts in America as if the question were important," he said. "To my mind these industrial questions are childish. The trust and the labor union are merely passing phenomena. A man does not have to live in an industrial center where human slavery has been established. He does not have to live in a city. Because man has spoiled a part of the earth is that a reason why people should stay there and suffer? No man should work for a man like Rockefeller. He should prefer starvation. He should consider it a religious duty to refuse to work for a trust. Let a man who works for a trust in America and who seeks relief—let such a man go into the country and get a small portion of ground to cultivate. Let him give up luxuries. Let him cease eating meat. The cost of living will be less than one-sixth of what it was."

"And if a man cannot get ground to dig in what then?"

"He should die rather than assist in supporting men like Rockefeller. It is his duty to die. If a military uniform were put on him and he were ordered to die he would do it proudly. For what? For patriotism, that evil thing which has done so much harm in the world and which we should condemn and restrict rather than defend and spread. The trouble is that men are not ready to die for the right thing."

"The talk about American trusts being an evolution of science is stupid. There is no science about it. The trust will disappear as soon as people are brave enough to refuse to serve it. A great deal is said about the enormous increase in production accomplished by the trusts. But is such production necessary? Does it make the people happier? No?"

"But the trust system has produced Andrew Carnegie, and he is using his hundreds of millions of dollars to provide free libraries for the people," I suggested.

"Yes; but libraries are not necessarily blessings. A library of good books is a good thing, but a library largely made up of bad books is a curse. I do not understand that Mr. Carnegie fills his libraries with good books only."

"Last year President Harper of the University of Chicago came to see me. He told me about the millions of dollars that Rockefeller had given to the university. He seemed to think that these millions were of great importance. But when I came to talk to him about serious matters I found him to be really ignorant—quite a barbarian. He knew less about matters of intellectual and moral interest than a man might learn simply by reading the Review of Reviews, for instance. Think of such a university directed by such a man! And yet that is one of the results of these trust millions."

"America is a nation absorbed in the pursuit of money, and yet," he folded his arms and bent his gray head—"and yet I will say of the Anglo-Saxon race that those few who are religious dare to live up to their principles. It is only just to say that. But the Germans are utterly without religion."

"It is a curious thing that the ordinary conception of the German is that he is an idealist and of the American and Englishman that they are practical. That is only an external description. The truth is that the German is only an idealist in words, in poetry, while there are Americans and Englishmen who can be idealists in deeds."

When the conversation was turned upon himself Count Tolstoi said: "I have tried hard to be sent to prison or to be hanged, but I have failed."

"Tried to be hanged?"

"Yes. It is the best end for a man except to be burned. Sacrifice is the best end."

"Are you quite serious?"

The count smiled and answered: "I have done everything to win that destiny. It is the ambition of my life to die for the faith that is in me. They who are sacrificed die well."

"But what good could you do by being hanged on a Russian gallows?"

For a moment Tolstoi was silent, then he sighed and stroked his gray beard.

"I am afraid you cannot understand me," he said. "They are about to put up a monument to John Huss, the Bohemian, who was burned at the stake for his religion in 1415."

"But Martin Luther was not burned, and he lived to see the Reformation succeed."

"Luther lived to compromise his own principles. Huss died without compromise."

"It is really hard to believe that you have deliberately sought to be condemned to death."

"It is quite true."

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"UNCLE JOSH SPRUCEBY."

The funny New England comedy, "Uncle Josh Spruceby" will be the attraction at the Brainerd theatre tonight. This charming comedy drama is a series of pictures of New England life on the farm, and the troubles of "Uncle Josh" in making a visit to New York are incidentally touched upon, the characters are all taken from Vermont rural life and are true to nature, the play containing a mixture of pathos and humor. Special scenery is used to mount the different scenes, and the great Saw Mill scene in use in this production is a most realistic piece of stage mechanism. Twenty people are in the company. In the cities visited this season the press speaks well of the production. Many new and catchy specialties are presented. A solo operatic orchestra and a big band are the musical features. A parade was given at noon and the concert of popular music rendered by the band proved very popular and attracted a large crowd.

DISCUSSES LYNCHING
JUSTICE BREWER SAYS THAT IT
TENDS TO UNDERMINE RE-
SPECT FOR LAW.

REMEDY FOR THE EPIDEMIC
ESTABLISHMENT OF MORE CONFI-
DENCE IN SWIFT PUNISHMENT
OF CRIMINAL.

New York, Aug. 17.—Associate Justice David L. Brewer of the supreme court of the United States has contributed to Leslie's Weekly an article on the crime of lynching. In the course of which he says:
"Our government recently forwarded to Russia a petition in respect to alleged atrocities committed upon the Jews. That government, as might have been expected, unwilling to have its internal affairs a matter of consideration by other governments, declined to receive the petition. If, instead of so doing, it had replied that it would put a stop to all atrocities when this government put a stop to lynchings, what could we have said?"
"It is well to look the matter fairly in the face. Many good men join in these uprisings, horrified at the atrocity of the crime and eager for swift and summary punishment. Of course they

Violate the Law Themselves, but rely on the public sentiment behind them for escape from punishment. Many of those lynchings are accompanied by the horrible barbarities of savage torture, and all that can be said in palliation is the atrocity of the offense which led up to them. For a time they were confined largely to the South, but that section of the country no longer has a monopoly. The chief offense which causes those lynchings has been the outrage of white women by colored men. No words can be found too strong to describe the atrocity of such a crime. It is no wonder that the country is excited. Men would disgrace their manhood if they were not. And if a few lynchings had put a stop to the offense, society might have condoned such breaches of its laws; but the fact is, if we may credit the reports, the crime instead of diminishing is on the increase. The black beast (for only a beast would be guilty of such an offense) seems to be not deterred thereby. More than that, as might be expected, lynching for such atrocious crimes is no longer confined to them, is being resorted to for other offenses.

Suggests a Remedy.
"What can be done to stay this epidemic of lynching? One thing is the establishment of greater confidence in the summary and certain punishment of the criminal. Men are afraid of the law's delays and the uncertainty of its results. I advocate doing away with appeals or criminal cases.
"I can but think that if the criminal would certainly receive the punishment he deserves, and receive it soon, the eagerness for lynching would disappear, and mobs, whose gatherings too often mean not merely destruction of jails and other property, but also the loss of innocent lives, would greatly diminish in number.
"One thing is certain—the tendency of lynching is to undermine respect for the law, and unless it be checked we need not be astonished if it be resorted to for all kinds of offenses, and oftentimes innocent men suffer for wrongs committed by others."

GENERAL STEWART ARRIVES.
Grand Army Encampment at San Francisco Practically Opened.
San Francisco, Aug. 17.—While the formal exercises of the national reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic do not begin until today, the encampment was to all intent and purpose opened Sunday with the arrival of General Thomas Stewart, commander-in-chief, on a special train bearing 365 members of the different Pennsylvania posts. Other distinguished arrivals were General Nelson A. Miles and General John C. Black, who is most prominently spoken of as the next commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. Trains arrived all day and late at night bringing many members and veterans. The registration bureau and information booths were thronged all day.
It will be Tuesday before all incoming trains will have arrived and on Wednesday, the day set for the parade, it is estimated that there will be fully 50,000 visitors in the city.
Tonight the local posts will inaugurate the encampment with receptions to the veterans.

SUPPOSED DOUBLE DROWNING.
Wealthy Chicagoan Searching for His Son and a Friend in Wisconsin.
Fish Creek, Wis., Aug. 17.—The supposed double drowning of two boys, sons of wealthy Chicagoans, became known Sunday when R. H. Parkson of Chicago engaged a tug to seek the bodies of his sixteen-year-old son, Jellison, and a friend named Montgomery. The boys went sailing Sunday last and have not been seen since. Tuesday the boat drifted ashore containing only young Parkson's clothing, in which was a letter from his father. The finding of the clothing in the boat is considered sufficient evidence that the boat did not capsize, and the manner in which the accident occurred is a mystery.

Between Danville and Tilton a drunken row occurred in one of the coaches and Officer Briggs attempted to quiet the combatants, when it is claimed, Konshall drew a knife and threatened to cut him. Briggs fired twice, one bullet striking Konshall in the neck and the other passing through his body near the naval. Konshall is in a hospital and is thought to be mortally wounded.

PARIS UNDERGROUND LINE.
Description of Region Where the Great Disaster Occurred.

Wonderfully comprehensive is the scheme of the Paris Metropolitan Underground railway, where the recent tunnel disaster occurred, says the New York Herald. When it is completely executed, about three years next April, Paris will possess nearly fifty miles of railway lines almost exclusively underground. The outside circle of the network of the Metropolitan runs within the circle of the city's walls and fortifications. This circle is cut and intersected by a great number of transverse lines terminating at some distance without its circumference on the extreme boundaries of the city, and crossing the Seine, either by means of tunnels or bridges, at no fewer than six different points. A straight section runs from the Bastille to the Porte Maillot, at the Bois de Boulogne. Eventually there will be 133 stations, situated at seldom more than 500 or 600 yards distance from one another, and every one of the 133 stations will be in direct communication with every other station on the system. At certain junctions, the Trocadero, the Arc de Triomphe and the Opera, where three lines meet, the station is constructed in two or three tiers.

Excavations were begun in November, 1898, and in less than two years—namely, by October, 1900—the first section, traversing Paris from east to west, was in full working order. The Parisians took to the new means of transit at once, the road became popular, and within seven months of its opening the daily average of passengers was 150,000, with daily receipts of $4,400.

The entrances to the stations are light and graceful and take up very little room, the stations being covered with thick glass and tulle shaped roofs, while the white stone stairways are flanked by white tiled walls, well lighted with incandescent lamps.

The trains follow each other at intervals of five minutes, the cars being comfortable and admirably lighted, while overcrowding of the carriages is, according to law, prohibited. The maximum load of a first class carriage is thirty-one passengers seated and twenty-one standing, and of a second class twenty-six passengers seated and twenty-one standing.

The second section of the Metropolitan, on which the accident occurred, extends from the Place d'Anvers to the Rue de Bagnole, a stretch of about six kilometers and some twelve stations, of which two are those of the Rue des Charbonnes and at Montmartre, between which the disaster happened.

The tunnel of the Paris Metropolitan is sixteen feet in diameter. Its depth varies, but it has no continuous deep level of sixty feet, like the Londoner's twopenny tube, though its average depth is below that of New York's rapid transit subway.

COLD HONEYMOON.

California Young People Will Hunt Foxes in Arctic Regions.

The strangest and probably the wildest honeymoon on record was begun in Los Angeles a few days ago. Two young German people are the participants of this unique and hazardous trip, says the Los Angeles Times. John Drast, the bridegroom, came to America about five months ago with the avowed purpose of journeying to the frozen north in search of fox skins. On his way across the continent he met the girl who is now his bride. He told her of his plans, and rather than wait until his return before marrying she suggested that he take her along and that the trip be made their honeymoon. Drast is twenty-one and his wife twenty-two years of age.

The boat that carries them, the Alert, although worn with age, is looked upon by those familiar with her gear as a good craft for almost any kind of weather. She is too small, however, to attempt a trip over so vast and rough a body of water. The Alert is a sloop rigged craft measuring about thirty-three feet over all, with a twelve foot beam. She was purchased from a San Pedro fisherman for $300. The couple carried with them about $250 worth of provisions, which are expected to last the voyagers until they reach their destination.

Drast and his wife are going to a point 600 miles east of the McKenzie river, which flows into the Arctic ocean, in search of black fox, whose skins are very valuable. They expect to spend the winter somewhere en route and proceed farther next summer. Drast said he would probably return in three years.

Progressive Driving in Missouri.

The society women of Missouri have invented a new diversion, a "progressive driving party," says the Kansas City Journal. It was the happy idea of Miss Rosamond Guthrie of Mexico, Mo. The guests at Miss Guthrie's party started from her home, a couple in a buggy. After driving ten or fifteen minutes all the buggies stopped, and each gentleman got out and climbed into the buggy just ahead of him. This was kept up all evening. The changes of partners were interspersed by refreshments at four different residences, the entire party being fed sandwiches and olives at one place, frappe at another, cheese straws and pickles at another and orange ice and cake at the conclusion. Seventeen young women and seventeen young men participated in this unusual diversion.

New Industry For Ireland.

The Irish department of agriculture is endeavoring to establish a new industry in the manufacture from beet root and potatoes of a low grade of alcohol cheap enough to compete with petrol or gasoline as a fuel for automobiles. In France a considerable demand has sprung up for alcohol for this purpose, and it is thought that the great productivity of Ireland in potato raising can be turned to account.

DISCUSSES LYNCHING

JUSTICE BREWER SAYS THAT IT
TENDS TO UNDERMINE RE-
SPECT FOR LAW.

REMEDY FOR THE EPIDEMIC

ESTABLISHMENT OF MORE CONFI-
DENCE IN SWIFT PUNISHMENT
OF CRIMINAL.

New York, Aug. 17.—Associate Justice David L. Brewer of the supreme court of the United States has contributed to Leslie's Weekly an article on the crime of lynching, in the course of which he says:

"Our government recently forwarded to Russia a petition in respect to alleged atrocities committed upon the Jews. That government, as might have been expected, unwilling to have its internal affairs a matter of consideration by other governments, declined to receive the petition. If, instead of so doing, it had replied that it would put a stop to all atrocities when this government put a stop to lynchings, what could we have said?"

"It is well to look the matter fairly in the face. Many good men join in these uprisings, horrified at the atrocity of the crime and eager for swift and summary punishment. Of course they

Violate the Law Themselves, but rely on the public sentiment behind them for escape from punishment. Many of those lynchings are accompanied by the horrible barbarities of savage torture, and all that can be said in palliation is the atrocity of the offense which led up to them. For a time they were confined largely to the South, but that section of the country no longer has a monopoly. The chief offense which causes those lynchings has been the outrage of white women by colored men. No words can be found too strong to describe the atrocity of such a crime. It is no wonder that the country is excited. Men would disgrace their manhood if they were not. And if a few lynchings had put a stop to the offense, society might have condoned such breaches of its laws; but the fact is, if we may credit the reports, the crime instead of diminishing is on the increase. The black beast (for only a beast would be guilty of such an offense) seems to be not deterred thereby. More than that, as might be expected, lynching for such atrocious crimes is no longer confined to them, is being resorted to for other offenses.

Suggests a Remedy.

"What can be done to stay this epidemic of lynching? One thing is the establishment of greater confidence in the summary and certain punishment of the criminal. Men are afraid of the law's delays and the uncertainty of its results. I advocate doing away with appeals or criminal cases.

"I can but think that if the criminal would certainly receive the punishment he deserves, and receive it soon, the eagerness for lynching would disappear, and mobs, whose gatherings too often mean not merely destruction of jails and other property, but also the loss of innocent lives, would greatly diminish in number.

"One thing is certain—the tendency of lynching is to undermine respect for the law, and unless it be checked we need not be astonished if it be resorted to for all kinds of offenses, and oftentimes innocent men suffer for wrongs committed by others."

GENERAL STEWART ARRIVES.

Grand Army Encampment at San Francisco Practically Opened.

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—While the formal exercises of the national reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic do not begin until today, the encampment was to all intent and purpose opened Sunday with the arrival of General Thomas Stewart, commander-in-chief, on a special train bearing 355 members of the different Pennsylvania posts. Other distinguished arrivals were General Nelson A. Miles and General John C. Black, who is most prominently spoken of as the next commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. Trains arrived all day and late at night bringing many members and veterans. The registration bureau and information booths were thronged all day.

It will be Tuesday before all incoming trains will have arrived and on Wednesday, the day set for the parade, it is estimated that there will be fully 50,000 visitors in the city.

Tonight the local posts will inaugurate the encampment with receptions to the veterans.

SUPPOSED DOUBLE DROWNING.

Wealthy Chicagoan Searching for His Son and a Friend in Wisconsin.

Fish Creek, Wis., Aug. 17.—The supposed double drowning of two boys, sons of wealthy Chicagoans, became known Sunday when R. H. Parkinson of Chicago engaged a tug to seek the bodies of his sixteen-year-old son, Jelsom, and a friend named Montgomery. The boys went sailing Sunday last and have not been seen since. Tuesday the boat drifted ashore containing only young Parkinson's clothing, in which was a letter from his father. The finding of the clothing in the boat is considered sufficient evidence that the boat did not capsize, and the manner in which the accident occurred is a mystery.

INDIAN TRIBAL WAR.

Witchcraft Causing Trouble Among the Chikits.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 17.—The steamer Princess Mary, from Skagway, brings word of a tribal war among the Chikits Indians of the Klukwan tribe. Frank Konshall of St. Paul Probably Fatally Wounded.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 17.—Frank Konshall of St. Paul, Minn., employed on the 'Frisco road, near Sidney, Ill., was probably fatally shot last evening by Special Officer Briggs, of the Wabash Railway company. Both were on a Decatur excursion train which left this city at 6:30. Between Danville and Tilton a drunken row occurred in one of the coaches and Officer Briggs attempted to quiet the combatants, when, it is claimed, Konshall drew a knife and threatened to cut him. Briggs fired twice, one bullet striking Konshall in the neck and the other passing through his body near the naval. Konshall is in a hospital and is thought to be mortally wounded.

PARIS UNDERGROUND LINE.

Description of Region Where the Great Disaster Occurred.

Wonderfully comprehensive is the scheme of the Paris Metropolitan Underground railway, where the recent tunnel disaster occurred, says the New York Herald. When it is completely executed, about three years next April, Paris will possess nearly fifty miles of railway lines almost exclusively underground. The outside circle of the network of the Metropolitan runs within the circle of the city's walls and interferences. This circle is cut and intersected by a great number of transverse lines terminating at some distance without its circumference on the extreme boundaries of the city, and crossing the Seine, either by means of tunnels or bridges, at no fewer than six different points. A straight section runs from the Bastille to the Porte Maillot, at the Bois de Boulogne. Eventually there will be 133 stations, situated at seldom more than 500 or 600 yards distance from one another, and every one of the 133 stations will be in direct communication with every other station on the system. At certain junctions, the Trocadero, the Arc de Triomphe and the Opera, where three lines meet, the station is constructed in two or three tiers.

Excavations were begun in November, 1898, and in less than two years—namely, by October, 1900—the first section, traversing Paris from east to west, was in full working order. The Parisians took to the new means of transit at once, the road became popular, and within seven months of its opening the daily average of passengers was 150,000, with daily receipts of $4,400.

The entrances to the stations are light and graceful and take up very little room, the stations being covered with thick glass and tulip shaped roofs, while the white stone stairways are flanked by white tiled walls, well lighted with incandescent lamps.

The trains follow each other at intervals of five minutes, the cars being comfortable and admirably lighted, while overcrowding of the carriages is, according to law, prohibited. The maximum load of a first class carriage is thirty-one passengers seated and twenty-one standing, and of a second class twenty-six passengers seated and twenty-one standing.

The second section of the Metropolitan, on which the accident occurred, extends from the Place d'Anvers to the Rue de Bagnole, a stretch of about six kilometers and some twelve stations, of which two are those of the Rue des Charonnies and at Menilmontant, between which the disaster happened.

The tunnel of the Paris Metropolitan is sixteen feet in diameter. Its depth varies, but it has no continuous deep level of sixty feet, like the Londoner's twopenny tube, though its average depth is below that of New York's rapid transit subway.

COLD HONEYMOON.

California Young People Will Hunt Foxes in Arctic Regions.

The strangest and probably the wildest honeymoon on record was begun in Los Angeles a few days ago. Two young German people are the participants of this unique and hazardous trip, says the Los Angeles Times. John Drast, the bridegroom, came to America about five months ago with the avowed purpose of journeying to the frozen north in search of fox skins. On his way across the continent he met the girl who is now his bride. He told her of his plans, and rather than wait until his return before marrying she suggested that he take her along and that the trip be made their honeymoon. Drast is twenty-one and his wife twenty-two years of age.

The boat that carries them, the Alert, although worn with age, is looked upon by those familiar with her gear as a good craft for almost any kind of weather. She is too small, however, to attempt a trip over so vast and rough a body of water. The Alert is a sloop rigged craft measuring about thirty-three feet over all, with a twelve foot beam. She was purchased from a San Pedro fisherman for $300. The couple carried with them about $250 worth of provisions, which are expected to last the voyagers until they reach their destination.

Drast and his wife are going to a point 600 miles east of the McKenzie river, which flows into the Arctic ocean, in search of black fox, whose skins are very valuable. They expect to spend the winter somewhere en route and proceed farther next summer. Drast said he would probably return in three years.

Progressive Driving in Missouri.

The society women of Missouri have invented a new diversion, a "progressive driving party," says the Kansas City Journal. It was the happy idea of Miss Rosamond Guthrie of Mexico, Mo. The guests at Miss Guthrie's party started from her home, a couple in a buggy. After driving ten or fifteen minutes all the buggies stopped, and each gentleman got out and climbed into the buggy just ahead of him. This was kept up all evening. The changes of partners were interspersed by refreshments at four different residences, the entire party being fed sandwiches and olives at one place, frappe at another, cheese straws and pickles at another and orange ice and cake at the conclusion. Seventeen young women and seventeen young men participated in this unusual diversion.

New Industry For Ireland.

The Irish department of agriculture is endeavoring to establish a new industry in the manufacture from beet root and potatoes of a low grade of alcohol cheap enough to compete with petrol or gasoline as a fuel for automobiles. In France a considerable demand has sprung up for alcohol for this purpose, and it is thought that the great productivity of Ireland in potato raising can be turned to account.
